DIVERSIFY YOUR IRA OR 401K RETIREMENT SAVINGS
BY INVESTING IN GOLD & SILVER
INVEST IN PRECIOUS METALS
To Help Diversify Your Retirement Account

Planning for a secure retirement is one of the most important decisions investors will ever make, right up there with buying a home and saving for your children's education. Do it right and you can rest easy, knowing that your nest egg will be waiting for you when you decide to hang up the boots and enjoy an exciting new phase of your life. Do it wrong and you may be disappointed to discover that your Golden Years aren't what you always hoped they would be.

Thanks to a little-known law, you can now put gold or silver into your IRA or 401k account to own physical precious metals in coin or bar form. You'll never have to wonder if your retirement is secure because YOU own tangible assets that can never disappear.

Think about this for a minute:

- Most investors have a retirement portfolio that is heavily weighted in volatile equities and hasn’t been rebalanced in years.
- People nearing retirement have the most to lose when the stock market declines.
- For the next 20 years, about 10,000 Baby Boomers will turn 65 each day. (Pew Research Center, 2010)
- The difficult economic times have made it harder than ever to build a nest egg.
- The average life expectancy is rising - retirees will need more money than ever.
- The current ratio of workers to retirees is 5:1. By 2050, it will drop to 3:1. (U.S. News & World Report, 2012)
- There is an ever-smaller number of workers to support increasing numbers of retirees.

Because of all this, there is increasing pressure on the federal government to redistribute wealth and "move money around" to take care of people that don't take care of themselves, and there is a very real concern that the money you've been socking away in your IRA or 401K retirement plan may not actually be there when you need it.

This has already happened with private pension plans, municipal retirement plans and other accounts that investors thought were secure, but turned out not to be.

GOLD HELPS TO PRESERVE YOUR BUYING POWER

Since the dawn of civilization, gold has been a storage of wealth during political chaos, economic downturns, and financial crisis.
The investment value of a rare coin, diamond or gemstone depends in large part on the price you pay. If you are acquiring any of our products as an investment, you should evaluate its current market value, potential for appreciation and liquidity and consult independent sources regarding these factors.

Since rare coins, modern rare coins, colorless and color diamonds, gemstones, bullion and rare currency can decline in value, you should have adequate cash reserves and disposable income before considering acquiring a coin, currency, diamond, gemstone or precious metals product.

We do not recommend early withdrawal from accounts or securities which may result in substantial penalties or fees. You should consult with your independent financial advisor before disposing of any security, annuity, Certificate of Deposit, or other investment to acquire rare coins, modern rare coins, diamonds, gemstones, bullion and rare currency.

The U.S. Gold Bureau is not responsible for any changes in tax laws or other statutes which may affect any profit or salability of your coins, diamonds, gemstones or currency.

As you can imagine, spot prices fluctuate all the time. They react to changes in supply and demand, rising when supply constraints cut the amount of available gold and silver or when customers demand more of it, and falling when there is a surplus in available supplies or the demand disappears.

The commodities markets are much more intricate than most people realize, but overall the spot price is one of the easiest concepts to understand in the industry. Simply put, if you want to buy gold or silver on the spot, rather than waiting until some time in the future, then the spot price (plus any premiums) is what you’ll pay right now to obtain it.
